

VETERAN

PROFILES OF SUCCESS

Bobby Daughtery

US Navy

Hiring Company: Chesapeake Energy Corp.

Class: Industrial Safety

Graduated 8/12/2011

Bobby Daughtery served in the United States Navy proudly for five years and travelled to a multitude of countries, from Australia, Russia, and Hong Kong, to New Caledonia, Sai Pan, and Dubai, and more. He received specialized training in areas which he believed would be transferrable into his civilian career, such as Emergency Firefighting, Damage Control Repair and Inventory Purchasing. But even with these experiences and training credentials, Bobby found himself in the small town of Hollister, California looking for work after leaving the Navy.

While visiting VFW Post 9242, Daughtery was given a flyer outlining the Industrial Safety Program offered by Airstreams/ARI Technical Institute. He immediately contacted the ARI Admissions team and was put in touch with U.S. Vets, a veteran's assistance group who was able to provide full tuition, lodging, equipment, and other costs for Bobby to attend the program.

"I was looking for a stable and reliable employer after my service in the military, and was informed of this program", Bobby said the day he arrived for class on 8/1/11. "I'm hoping to have a long career with a good company that I can grow with and have a stable future, as well as a career path which provides further advancement."

Before graduating from the Industrial Safety Course, Bobby interviewed with Chesapeake Energy Corp with hopes of landing an entry-level job paying upwards of $70,000 to start. The recruiter loved him!

Bobby's future with Chesapeake Energy is looking solid and his goal of obtaining that long, stable career with growth opportunities is on track!
